

THE GENUINE DR. C. McLANE'S WORM SPECIFIC OR VERMIFUGE.

SYMPTOMS OF WORMS.

THE countenance is pale and lead-colored, with occasional flushes, or a circumscribed spot on one or both cheeks; the eyes become dull; the pupils dilate; an azure semicircle runs along the lower eye-lid; the nose is irritated, swells, and sometimes bleeds; a swelling of the upper lip; occasional headache, with humming or throbbing of the ears; an unusual secretion of saliva; slimsy or furred tongue; breath very foul, particularly in the morning; appetite variable, sometimes voracious, with a gnawing sensation of the stomach, at others entirely gone; fretting pains in the stomach; occasional nausea and vomiting; violent pains throughout the abdomen; bowels irregular, at times costive; stools slimy, not unfrequently tinged with blood; belly swollen and hard; urine turbid; respiration occasionally difficult, and accompanied by hiccup; cough sometimes dry and convulsive; and uneasy and disturbed sleep, with grinding of the teeth; temper variable, but generally irritable, &c.

Whenever the above symptoms are found to exist, DR. C. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE will certainly effect a cure.

IT DOES NOT CONTAIN MERCURY in any form; it is an innocent preparation, not capable of doing the slightest injury to the most tender infant. The genuine DR. C. McLANE'S VERMIFUGE bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrapper.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS are not recommended as a remedy "for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but in affections of the liver, and in all Bilious Complaints, Dyspepsia and Sick Headache, or diseases of that character, they stand without a rival.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated. Each box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS. Each wrapper bears the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. Insist upon having the genuine Dr. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.

Notice to the Public.

Fort Wayne, Ind., June 11, 1879.—The certificates given by the Trustees of the Public Schools of this city to the graduates from the Central Grammar School are the highest testimonials of merit the Public Schools can furnish; and no public presentation of bouquets by the admirers and friends can add anything to the respect due alike to all the graduates of the class. Such evidences of admiration and friendship are no part of the public exercises of the Public Schools, but oftentimes cloud the memories of the occasion with a sense of injustice. The Board therefore order: That no public presentation of bouquets to any of the graduating class will be permitted on the evening of the graduation exercises, June 13th.

SYLVESTER SKIPS.

And Takes Away with Him Mr. Swihart's Pretty Wife.

A Dark-Eyed Italian Painter "Maskee" a Handsome Blonde.

He is Now Wanted For Larceny—History of An Interesting Case.

Last night when the Cincinnati excursion party left the south depot a man named M. E. Swihart entered one of the coaches in a high state of excitement, and assailed a young man who was seated therein with a number of vituperative epithets, such as, "You d—d black hearted scoundrel," "You vile s—n of a b—h," etc. Mr. Swihart said to him: "You didn't get away so nice as you thought you would, did you? After my keeping you for months, to have you break up my family and ruin my home. I've a notion to smash your head for you." The young man responded, "Haven't I always treated you white?" to which Swihart responded in an excited way, again using the strongest epithets. Mr. Swihart then moved to a seat a short distance from where the young man was seated, and spoke in a very earnest way to a very fine looking specimen of the female sex. He spoke to her earnestly and excitedly and she replied in the same manner, uttering several stout denials, and shaking her head and ejaculating "No!" repeatedly. The woman was very fine looking, apparently not over twenty-five, quite fair, with regular features, auburn hair and a trim, well-rounded figure; her dress and bearing being quite modest and becoming. She was much excited when her husband entered the car, and betrayed her nervousness in various ways. He seemed to be a clever young fellow, and as he wanted to board with me I took him. He remained there ever since, until a week ago last Monday. He was a great deal of the time and couldn't pay his board, but I didn't turn him away, as I had taken pity on him. About two months ago I concluded that he was improperly intimate with my wife. LATE CITY NEWS.

Where Is He?

A Calhoun street hotel keeper named Darrow, is missing, and has been since last night. Great excitement prevails. He was last seen in a barber shop where he got shaved. He had traded hats with a friend. Soon afterwards they parted and since that time no clue to his whereabouts has been obtained. It is not known whether he had any considerable amount of money on his person or not. He had been drinking some during the evening, and it is supposed that perhaps he may have met with foul play, or possibly may have strayed to the river and got drowned. The family and friends have instituted a search for him, but up to this hour no intelligence of him has been received. There is no question about his absence being involuntary, as there would be no possible cause for his disappearance upon premeditated grounds. Further developments are anxiously looked for.

SYLVESTER SKIPS.

And Takes Away with Him Mr. Swihart's Pretty Wife.

A Dark-Eyed Italian Painter "Masks" a Handsome Blonde.

He is Now Wanted For Larceny—History of An Interesting Case.

Last night when the Cincinnati excursion party left the south depot a man named M. E. Swihart entered one of the coaches in a high state of excitement, and assailed a young man who was seated therein with a number of vituperative epithets, such as, "You d—d black hearted scoundrel," "You vile s—n of a b—h," etc. Mr. Swihart said to him: "You didn't get away so nice as you thought you would, did you? After my keeping you for months, to have you break up my family and ruin my home. I've a notion to smash your head for you."

The young man responded, "Haven't I always treated you white?" to which Swihart responded in an excited way, again using the strongest epithets.

Mr. Swihart then moved to a seat a short distance from where the young man was seated, and spoke in a very earnest way to a very fine looking specimen of the female sex. He spoke to her earnestly and excitedly, and she replied in the same manner, uttering

SEVERAL SOUT DEXIALS, and shaking her head and ejaculating "No!" repeatedly.

The coach was crowded with interested listeners, and it didn't take long to convince everybody that Mr. Swihart was an injured husband, and that he had detected his wife and her paramour in the act of elopement.

The woman was very fine looking, apparently not over twenty-five, quite fair, with regular features, auburn hair and a trim, well-rounded figure; her dress and bearing being quite modest and becoming. She was much excited when her husband entered the car, and betrayed her nervousness in various ways. The young man who received the terrible tongue-lashing proved to be a painter named William Sylvester. He took his punishment very quietly, and seemed pleased to escape without corporal castigation.

Just as the train pulled out Mr. Swihart got off the car, leaving the guilty couple to proceed unmolested on their journey.

He was afterwards seen by a SENTINEL reporter, to whom he made THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT:

"My name is Wm. B. Swihart, and I was married to my wife, then Melissa Teeters, in Steuben county, near V. A. Terloo, about thirteen years ago. We lived in that county until a year ago, when we removed to Fort Wayne and I secured employment at Hoffman's mills. I lived on Barr street for a few weeks. We then began house-keeping at the corner of Wayne and Clinton streets in one of the buildings just torn down to make room for the Masonic Temple. We have two children, both daughters, one aged ten and the other nine. Last summer I became acquainted with William Sylvester, a young painter who had recently come here from Springfield, Ill. He seemed to be a clever young fellow, and as he wanted to board with me I took him. He remained there ever since, until a week ago last Monday. He

WAS OUT OF WORK a great deal of the time and couldn't pay his board, but I didn't turn him away, as I had taken pity on him. About two months ago I concluded that he was improperly intimate with my wife. I determined to satisfy myself on that point, and kept a close watch, but while I was more certain than ever that

MY SUSPICIONS WERE CORRECT, I could get no positive proof. I finally concluded, however, to break up housekeeping and send my wife to her mother's home in Steuben county. Accordingly I sold my goods, gave the proceeds to my wife, and sent her home with her children. She left a week ago last Monday, and on last Monday she returned to this city. I had no knowledge of her return until last night, when I happened to meet her on Calhoun street. I stopped her and asked her where she was going and what she was going to do. She said she didn't know, but she didn't intend to stay here any longer. She did not tell me where she stayed Monday night. I determined to watch her, and did so. I saw her go to the depot, and afterwards saw Sylvester going in the same direction. I saw her baggage and waited until they got into the coach, when I opened up on them. I would

HAVE KILLED HIM, but I thought I would be arrested and that it would disgrace my children."

Mr. Swihart said his wife was a very intelligent woman and a good housekeeper and they had always lived happily together until the last two months. He did not propose to grieve after her, because he did not think her worth it. He had once been very much attached to her, but would never live with her again. He should get his children and provide for them, and would then apply for a divorce. He said Sylvester was a worthless fellow, without any means, and unable to provide for Mrs. Swihart.

It appears that after Mr. Swihart broke up housekeeping Sylvester went to boarding at Jacob Long's, and roomed with an intimate friend named Joseph M. Gardiner, with whom he became a year ago from Springfield, Ill. After the train left last night, Gardiner discovered that Sylvester had carried off two collars, two shirts, a hat and some other articles belonging to him. He at once notified Marshal Diehl, who telegraphed to the chief of police of Cincinnati
